

José Manuel Conde Alonso

Universidad Autónoma de Madrid

ANALYSIS AS A TOOL TO STUDY GROUPS

Many groups are naturally equipped with a measure, which allows one to do analysis on them. Noncommutative groups in particular pose additional challenges, but one can still use analytic tools to study geometric notions on them. In this talk, we shall explain the basic notions and explore at least one direction that one can follow to (try to) solve questions in geometry or algebra using harmonic analysis.